kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! rakṣā mām!
kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! kṛṣṇa! pāhi mām!
rāma! rāghava! rāma! rāghava! rāma! rāghava! rakṣā mām!
kṛṣṇa! keśava! kṛṣṇa! keśava kṛṣṇa! keśava! pāhi mām!

“O Lord Krsna, please protect me and maintain me. O Lord Rama, descendant of King Raghu, please protect me. O Krsna, O Kesava, killer of the Kesi demon, please maintain me.”

In the Sri Caitanya Caritamṛta Madhya-līla Chapter 7 verse 96, there is a description of Lord Caitanya beginning His tour of South India. It is described that he was like a mad lion filled with ecstatic love as he performed samkīrtan, chanting these names of Krsna. Srīla Prabhupāda included this song in his two volume set, Krsna the Supreme Personality of Godhead and would often chant this song before reading this great literature.
